CHILI HILL FOOD & FARM

Meet our vendor of the week!

Meet Chili Hill Food & Farm! This will be their 5th year with us at the Smithfield Farmers Market. You can always find them up against the wooden fence across from the BSV's ATM. Just follow your nose!

You can follow them on Face Book @Chili Hill Foods & Farm and be in the loop for new things coming!

Meet the Owners!

Meet Tim Miller and his wife, Akkhara Phayom. Together they have running Chili Hill since 2016 when they first started growing Thai chilies and sold them to the Thai community. Their chili business grew rapidly and unfortunately couldn't find help which led them in the direction of the market.

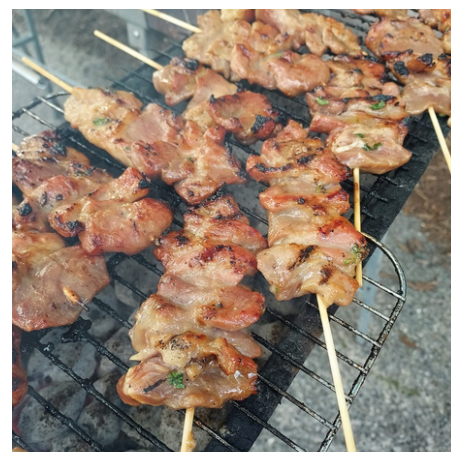

Chili Hill started at the market in 2019 when they started to cut back on farming the giant quantities of chili peppers and then began to cook with them instead.

Home Grown in Windsor!

Tim and Akkhara's farm is nestled on family property in Windsor and provides them with fresh produce for their cooking. They grow an array of items, including Asian cucumbers, eggplants, greens, herbs, onions, bell peppers, and of course, chili peppers.

Chili Hill cross utilizes as much as they can from their farm to provide their customers with the freshest ingredients.

Mouth Watering!

What's your favorite food at Chili Hill? You can always follow your stomach to their booth at the market during the market season or you can find them in their brick and mortar at 302 Main Street in Smithfield.

Their brick and mortar opened in November of 2021 and has been thriving ever since with their curry of the week being their best seller. Another popular favorite is their Thursday night family meal deal.

However, at the market, the best seller are their Thai pork skewers. It takes the couple over 20 hours to prep for the market!
